Figure S1. Simulation of metabolic concentrations is robust to parameter changes within 10% of their estimated value.
2D histogram plot of 10.000 model samples. Darker areas point at more dense regions. Models were sampled by adding random noise to all the parameters in the network, within a range of ±10% of the original parameter value.